IJUDA - Publication Agreement

Upon the acceptance of a manuscript for publication in the International Journal of Underwater Domain Awareness (IJUDA), the corresponding author (acting on behalf of all co-authors) is required to formally agree to the terms of the journal's Publication Agreement. This agreement defines the transfer of publishing rights and outlines the legal framework under which the work will be distributed.

1. Copyright Retention

In alignment with the principles of open-access academic publishing, authors retain full copyright ownership of their intellectual property. IJUDA does not require authors to surrender or transfer their copyright to the journal or its publisher.

2. License to Publish

While authors retain their copyright, they grant the Foundation for Underwater Domain Awareness (FUDA) a permanent, non-exclusive license to:

- Publish, reproduce, distribute, and publicly display the article across digital and (if applicable) print mediums.
- Index and archive the final published version (Version of Record) in recognized academic databases, search engines, and digital preservation repositories.
- Format, typeset, and technically adapt the manuscript as necessary to meet the journal's publication standards.

3. Open Access and Creative Commons Licensing

To facilitate the broadest possible dissemination of maritime research, IJUDA publishes all articles under the Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License (CC BY 4.0).

- Under this licensing framework, readers, institutions, and the authors themselves are free to share, copy, distribute, and adapt the published material in any medium or format.
- The sole requirement for this reuse is that appropriate bibliographic credit must be given to the original authors, and IJUDA must be explicitly acknowledged as the initial venue of publication.

4. Author Warranties and Permissions

By entering into the Publication Agreement, the authors affirm that:

- The manuscript is an original work, has not been published previously, and is not under active consideration by any other publisher.
- The research does not contain any libelous, unlawful, or fabricated statements, nor does it infringe upon the intellectual property rights or privacy of others.
- Written permission has been secured for the reproduction of any copyrighted third-party material (such as extensive data sets, proprietary models, or specific imagery) included within the manuscript, and such material is clearly identified and cited.
